

POSOL

PAINT COLOUR GUIDE

2022

Introduction

At Port Solent there are four distinct housing types which were built by three different developers during a twelve year period between 1988 and 2000. Each developer imposed a number of covenants upon owners as each construction phase was completed.

The house deeds contain restrictions on external colours and POSOL's approval is required for any deviation from the specified colours.

The deeds were written between 20 and 30 years ago and colours that were popular, and easily available, at that time can now be difficult to obtain. While the deeds do include the relevant British Standard (BS number) not all local suppliers recognise the BS number for colour matching.

This paint guide therefore includes colours that POSOL considers are reasonable substitutes for the colours specified in the covenants. Most suppliers will be able to mix to NCS colours

This POSOL Paint Colour Guide shows typical elevations of each housing type with various colours identified on each elevation.

Appendix 1 - Port Solent House Paint Colour Schedule.

Appendix 2 - Paint colours and suppliers.

Appendix 3 - Names and addresses of local paint suppliers who have provided the paints.

The Port Solent Estate is enhanced by the architectural synergy between the houses together with their coordinated colour schemes. It only takes one non-compliant house to destroy the overall image, which is why these covenants are so important.
